BACKGROUND

In 2013, the State Water Board adopted Resolution No. 2013-0029, which summarized efforts to address the cost of compliance starting in 2011, including the development of a multi-phase work plan and a Resource Alignment Report. The efforts focused on assessing opportunities for reducing the costs of compliance for dischargers subject to Water Board oversight under the National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (NPDES) Wastewater, Stormwater, Irrigated Lands, and Waste Discharge Requirement (WDR) programs. In accordance with the work plan, a Water Boards workgroup consisting of State and Regional Water Board staff worked with stakeholder groups associated with each program to identify potential options for reducing these costs. A significant portion of this effort is working with participating stakeholders to help gather and validate data on compliance costs and opportunities to reduce these costs.

The Resolution also directed Water Boards staff to continue to engage with stakeholders to identify ways in which cost of compliance can be reduced. This workshop is the latest in a series of meetings and workshops. The workshop will summarize efforts completed to date, brainstorm additional ideas, and identify next steps.
