

Two Cornell pumps powered by International engines that are fueled with natural gas at the point of diversion.

Place of use looking east from near the Highway 101 overpass. The Russian River is in the tree line in the background.