

I understand that you will be reviewing the potential requirement for CalAm water to further reduce the amounts provided to this vital community.

Many alternatives to providing adequate water for this community that is one of the most frugal and water efficient in the state have been regularly and consistently stopped by various government agencies (not sure if the coastal commission is really a state agency since the people don't get a say in electing the representative).

It seems that addressing the various roadblocks is important prior to reducing our current supply. The right hand and the left hand of government should be working together in this "of the people, by the people, and for the people" role we have created as a nation.
