BACKGROUND

The Triennial Review is a process conducted to meet the requirements of the Clean Water Act section 303(c)(1), which requires the Colorado River Basin Water Board to hold public hearings for the purpose of reviewing applicable water quality standards at least once each three-year period. Likewise, Water Code section 13240 requires the periodic review and revision of regional Basin Plans. Water quality standards are contained in the Basin Plan and consist of beneficial uses for surface water and groundwater bodies, listed in Chapter 2 of the Basin Plan, and water quality objectives established to protect those uses, listed in Chapter 3 of the Basin Plan. Actions implementing water quality standards are listed in Chapter 4 of the Basin Plan.

Prior to the comment period announced in this notice, Colorado River Basin Water Board staff conducted an earlier comment period to solicit projects to make possible additions and revisions to regulations that establish and implement water quality standards. These projects have been put together into a draft Triennial Review List, along with ongoing water quality standards projects. The projects in the Triennial Review List are ranked using criteria developed based on public input and program priorities. The draft Triennial Review List and the supporting draft Staff Report are now available for public review on the Colorado River Basin Regional Water Board's Basin Planning Program Page. Once approved by the Colorado River Basin Water Board after a public hearing, the Triennial Review List will serve as a three-year workplan for the Water Quality Standards unit, to be implemented based upon available resources.

After the 2023 Triennial Review is approved, there will be additional opportunities for public participation for the individual projects, including public comment periods and public hearings for any Colorado River Basin Water Board actions related to consideration of new or revised water quality standards.
