BACKGROUND

Section 303(d) of the Clean Water Act requires each state to identify waters of the United States that do not meet, or are not expected to meet by the next listing cycle, applicable water quality standards and to prioritize those waters for total maximum daily load development, unless other corrective action is appropriate. Section 305(b) of the Clean Water Act requires each state to report on the overall condition of its surface waterbodies (commonly referred to as the “305(b) report”). California combines its 303(d) lists and 305(b) reports into a single “California Integrated Report.”

The State Water Board is administering the listing process for all waters assessed during the 2020-2022 listing cycle, in accordance with Section 6.2 of the Water Quality Control Policy for Developing California’s Clean Water Act Section 303(d) List (“Listing Policy”). At the January 18-19, 2022 public meeting, the State Water Board will consider approving the proposed statewide 303(d) list portion of the 2020-2022 Integrated Report for adoption. Upon adoption, the California Integrated Report will be submitted to U.S. EPA, which may make changes to the 303(d) list before it approves the final 303(d) list for California. Neither agency takes formal approval action on the 305(b) report, which is an informational document that characterizes the state’s general water quality conditions. Generally, the State Water Board does not solicit comments or respond to comments pertaining to the 305(b) portion of the California Integrated Report.

For the 2020-2022 California Integrated Report, the Central Coast, Central Valley, and San Diego Regional Water Boards are “on cycle.” The Regional Water Board for the Colorado River Basin Regional Water Board also conducted “off-cycle” assessments for several waterbodies. All readily available data and information received during the data solicitation period from surface waterbodies (rivers, streams, lakes, bays, estuaries, enclosed lagoons, and coastal waters) in the Central Coast, Central Valley, and San Diego regions were considered, as well as high priority data from the Colorado River Basin Region. The data cutoff date for the 2020-2022 listing cycle was June 14, 2019. Data that met mapping and quality assurance requirements of the Listing Policy were analyzed using a weight of evidence approach to determine if water quality standards are attained in a waterbody. The 2020-2022 Integrated Report updates the 2018 Integrated Report.

Based on assessments of these data, approximately 1,078 new listings and 223 delistings of impaired waterbody-pollutant combinations are recommended for the 303(d) List. An individual waterbody may be impaired by one or more pollutants.
