BACKGROUND

The California Human Right to Water Law AB 685 \(Eng, 2012\) specifies that it is the “established policy of the state that every human being has the right to safe, clean, affordable, and accessible water adequate for human consumption, cooking, and sanitary purposes.” However, more than one hundred thousand Californians are homeless and do not have continuous access to drinking water and sanitation.

Access to Drinking Water and Sanitation is Unavailable to Many

The number of people experiencing homelessness in California now dramatically exceeds the existing emergency shelter capacity.<sup>1</sup> The US Department of Housing and Urban Development’s 2018 Annual Homeless Assessment Report to Congress defines homelessness as either sheltered homelessness—those who have access to an emergency shelter, transitional housing program or a safe haven—or unsheltered homelessness, those whose primary nighttime resident is a public or private place not designated for regular sleeping accommodation (i.e. the street, vehicles, or parks).<sup>2</sup> Last year in California, the 2018 Annual Homeless Assessment Report counted 129,972 homeless people on a single night in January. Of that, 40,429 were sheltered homeless persons who possibly had access to water during facility operating hours. The report also found more than 85,373 unsheltered homeless persons who possibly may not have access to water and sanitation.

Public Health Impacts

Multiple California counties experienced a hepatitis A outbreak amongst the homeless population from 2017 to 2018. The outbreak included 574 cases, 398 hospitalizations, and 20 deaths by the end of January 2018. On October 13, 2017, former Governor Brown declared a state of emergency to allow the state to increase its supply of hepatitis A vaccines in order to control the outbreak. The Executive Order<sup>3</sup> required the California Department of Public Health to take all measures necessary to obtain hepatitis A vaccines, prioritize the vaccination of at-risk individuals in affected locations, and control and coordinate all drugs and medical supply stocks intended for wholesale distribution.<sup>4</sup>

Identifying Metrics to Provide Drinking Water and Sanitation Facilities

There is limited data measuring the number of public restrooms and plumbing fixtures, their hours of operation, their Americans with Disabilities Act accessibility compliance, their cleanliness, and their safety.<sup>5</sup> The workshop will address data needs and collection.
