

Claire Waggoner Bio

Claire Waggoner is the senior environmental scientist overseeing the Statewide Policies and Planning Unit in the Division of Water Quality. Claire and her team work on water quality issues related to constituents of emerging concern, recycled water, seawater desalination, and salts and nutrients. They are also working to identify and fund recycled water research needs, including developing and improving water quality screening tools.