State Water Resources Control Board

Draft Proposal Urban Water Supplier Monthly Water Conservation Reports

Please join State Water Resources Control Board (State Water Board) staff for a conference call on a draft proposal to require urban water suppliers to submit monthly monitoring reports on potable water production. State Water Board staff will present information on the proposal, which modifies the current voluntary reporting, and considers changing data needs as the state moves toward a water efficiency approach. Staff will solicit input, and answer questions.

Date: Wednesday, July 31, 2019

Time: 10:00 am to 11:00 am

Call in (866) 233-3841, Participant Code: 470408 (An operator will assist with the Q&A portion of the meeting. There is no registration for this meeting.)

Handout: Material related for this meeting will be available on the Conservation Portal prior to the meeting (see “What’s New” Section).

General Meeting Objective:

Stakeholders understand the draft proposal to require urban water suppliers to submit monthly monitoring reports on potable water production and provide input on the proposal.

Background

The State Water Board adopted a drought emergency water conservation regulation in July 2014. The regulation required the state's larger urban water suppliers (those with more than 3,000 connections) to report to the Board monthly. Reporting was required until the emergency regulation expired in November 2017, and has continued on a voluntary basis since then. The reports include information on residential gallons per capita daily water use, total potable water production, measures implemented to conserve water and improve efficiency, and local enforcement actions.

In May 2018, Governor Brown signed new water efficiency legislation (Senate Bill 606 and Assembly Bill 1668). The new law creates water use efficiency standards and provides the State Water Board the authority to require monthly reporting that is currently voluntary.
